

PSY367: Dying, Grieving, and Coping

This course examines the concept of death and our psychological responses to death. This subject is explored across cultures and through history from many viewpoints. The class also has many outside speakers to address multiple views on death and dying.

Credit Hour(s): 3

Prerequisites:

PSY111.

Department: Psychology

Semester Offered:

Spring (even)