MAT337: Applied Statistical Models

A course on modeling in statistics, with a focus on applications. Topics include: basic model designs, geometric understanding of models and random vectors, interpretation of models and inference from them (confidence intervals and hypothesis testing), investigating causation, experiments.

Credit Hour(s): 3
Prerequisites:
MAT225
Department: Mathematics, Physics, and Computer Science
Semester Offered:
Spring (odd)