

POS350: Terrorism

This course examines the social phenomenon of terrorism, both at the national and the international levels. Topics include the nature, historic evolution, types, determinants, and motivations related to terrorism. Strategies and policies from nation-states in dealing with terrorism are also explored.

Credit Hour(s): 3

Department: Political Science