

BI0312: Immunology and Pathogenesis

A study of the bacteria pathogenic to humans and the mechanisms of infection and immunity. Methods of isolation, growth, and identification of the pathogens and serology are emphasized. Laboratory.

Credit Hour(s): 4

Prerequisites:

BI0212

Department: Biological Sciences

Semester Offered:

Spring (odd)

Recommended:

BI0311 recommended.