

CHE135: Practical Applications of Chemistry

This course is designed to expose science majors to some of the many practical applications of chemistry, such as nuclear power, plastics, household products, nutrition, or drugs, as well as the interaction of chemistry with other segments of society.

Credit Hour(s): 1

Prerequisites:

CHE111.

Department: Chemistry

Semester Offered:

Fall

Spring