

KHS410: Measurement and Evaluation in Kinesiology

This course is designed to familiarize the student with the various testing procedures used in Kinesiology and instruct him/her on how to use the results. The areas studied will include a wide range, including test of knowledge, skills, fitness, and attitudes. In addition, each student will be introduced to research methods. Students are expected to conduct a research project.

Credit Hour(s): 3

Department: Kinesiology and Health Studies

Semester Offered:

Spring