MAT343: Mathematical Modeling

An introduction to the study of modeling real- world phenomena, with an emphasis on applications to science. Topics include modeling using difference equations and differential equations, simulation, and matrix modeling and Markov chains.
Credit Hour(s): 3
Prerequisites:
MAT125 and CSC115.
Department: Mathematics, Physics, and Computer Science
Semester Offered:
Spring (even)