

PHY109: Meteorology

Introduction to atmospheric structure and behavior including cloud structure and precipitation as well as the effects of pressure, density, temperature, and humidity differences on energy transport and atmospheric motions. Climate, weather forecasting, air pollution, and other applications will be covered. No laboratory.

Credit Hour(s): 3

Department: Mathematics, Physics, and Computer Science