

REL245: Religion and Popular Culture

An introduction to the study of religion and popular culture. Special attention is given to the ways in which religious and secular values interact and find expression in mass media products such as literature, film, music, and television.

Credit Hour(s): 3

Department: Religion

Semester Offered:

Fall (odd)

Area of Inquiry: Religion