

REL247: Religion and Politics in America

A study of the complex relationship between religion and politics in colonial North America and in the history of the United States. Special attention is focused upon both the founding period and upon the modern context. This course satisfies a Cultural Awareness Flag (C) in the Foundations and Core Program.

Credit Hour(s): 3

Department: Religion

Semester Offered:

Fall (even)

Area of Inquiry: Religion