

THE171: Topics

This course will introduce students to the study of script analysis and how it relates to the creation of live theatrical events and filmed adaptations while exploring a specific topic in one or more of the fields of performance production. The course is open to all students and may be counted toward the Theatre major or minor. This course may be repeated.

Credit Hour(s): 3

Department: Performing Arts

Semester Offered:

Spring

Area of Inquiry: Fine Arts: THE